The Weapons of Mass Destruction expansion has 2 print runs. In the initial print run, a typographical error appeared on the Advance in Miniaturization card. The card scanned for this reference is from the first print run and shows the error. It was fixed on the second print run in 2016.

The Second Edition of these cards was released in the Nuclear Destruction box. Those cards are not the same game style as the first edition.

The forty-card Population deck for Weapons of Mass Destruction was the first to have the full-color design and licensed characters from Nodwick, Dork Tower, and Knights of the Dinner Table. Flying Buffalo's own Grimtooth from Tunnels & Trolls even showed up.

The deck deviated from the sheets of cardstock that had to be cut by hand, which had been the standard for most of the third edition of the game.
